Increased Productivity During a Financial Crisis is the Focus of PAI/ATM Express's Distributor Conference

(December 19, 2008 Jackson, Miss.) More than one hundred eighty people from across the United States recently attended the Annual Distributor Conference hosted by Payment Alliance International/ATM Express in Cancun, Mexico. The five day conference brought together some of the Company's leading Distributors and top Management along with representatives from the world's leading manufacturers of ATM equipment to review new products and services and begin an important dialogue about how these groups might work together more closely to produce more business and increase income.

"The conference marked the eighth time the Company has brought together some the top Distributors and Company Management to create a dialogue whereby the groups could better cooperate to improve financial prospects for themselves and their customers, said Neil Clark, Senior Vice President of PAI ATM Strategies.

The conference specifically addressed ways Distributors can bundle ATM, Bankcard, Prepaid, Branding, and Wireless services to better capitalize on the increased nationwide usage of these services. Clark noted that PAI/ATM Express is the only company in the country that has the infrastructure to sell and support such a host of merchant services with an emphasis on great customer service.

Representatives from the world's largest ATM manufacturers, Triton, Nautilus Hyosung and Tranax also met with Distributors to review current and new products.
